

Conference Theme: “Breaking Boundaries: Research for Societal Transformation”

Submissions of original research and policy papers are welcome to this conference, focusing on research pivotal to societal transformation.

The theme emphasizes innovative studies that go beyond conventional limits and have the potential to catalyze significant societal change. Studies showcased at the conference will address pressing global challenges and offer transformative solutions that can reshape communities, industries, and societies as a whole. It aims to inspire interdisciplinary collaboration, foster knowledge exchange, and mobilize stakeholders toward collective action for positive societal transformation on a global scale.

Sub-Themes:

1. Sustainable Development - Studies on environmental sustainability, renewable energy, climate change mitigation, and the circular economy.
2. Equity and Inclusion- Research initiatives aimed at promoting social justice, diversity, and inclusivity across various dimensions such as gender, race, ethnicity, and socio-economic status.
3. Innovation for Social Impact – Research that introduces groundbreaking technologies, methodologies, or approaches to address societal issues.
4. Health and Well-Being – Presenting research findings that improve public health, healthcare access, mental health support, and overall well-being for communities worldwide.

5. Education and Empowerment – research efforts aimed at enhancing educational systems, lifelong learning opportunities, and empowering marginalized populations through education.
6. Governance and Policy - Research outcomes that inform evidence-based policymaking, governance frameworks, and institutional reforms to foster social progress and resilience.
